

We are seeking energetic, unique, and collaborative proposals from individuals in the fields of higher education, career services, and employer relations/recruitment who can lend their expertise to peers within the field. With our current theme, “A Celebration of Success,” this is your time to brag about the exceptional work you’re doing!

Want to present, but don’t know what to present on? We have an interest in all proposals related to the theme, and hope for presentations appropriate for all levels of professional. We especially encourage presentations related to:

- Successful branding or promotion of offices or services – How do you get your students in your doors?
- Creative partnerships or collaborations – How do you get your students outside your doors?
 - Cross-campus
 - Employer relations
 - Internships/Service-Learning/Volunteerism
- Interesting programing – What do your students need to know? How do you tell them?
- Student Employment/Outside Employment programs – How do you help your students work?
- Use of technologies – Your students know how to use them. What do your colleagues need to know?
- Highlights of student successes, especially in nontraditional populations, including:
 - Students with families
 - Student Veterans
 - Students with Disabilities

We are also interested in unique presentation formats. Please consider the following:

- Use of interactive technologies
 - Inclusion of student/employer populations
 - Panel presentations
 - Audience participation
-

Interested in submitting? Here’s what you need to know:

- All presentations will be 45 minutes in length.
- Presentation rooms will have internet access, a computer, a projector, and sound capabilities.
- All confirmed presenters will attend the conference free of charge.

Please submit conference proposals by Friday, March 16th. The programming committee will inform prospective presenters of their proposal status no later than Monday, April 2nd.

Proposals may be submitted via the following link: CDPI Conference Proposals 2018.

For questions regarding program proposals, please contact Keely Floyd via email: knfloyd@iupui.edu.